

Backyard Habitat for Birds

(as well as Butterflies, Dragonflies & More!)

Pat Sutton, noted NJ naturalist and author

Wednesday, October 14, 7:00 - 8:30 PM

Hamilton Township Public Library

The best place to protect the environment is in your own backyard with native plants and wildlife-friendly practices.

Pat Sutton will showcase native trees, shrubs, vines, wildflowers, and even weeds that are most beneficial to birds and other wildlife. Whether your yard is large or small, urban or rural, you'll learn how you can make a difference.

A life-long naturalist intimate with the workings of the natural world, Ms. Sutton will share common-sense garden maintenance techniques that will help property owners avoid practices that harm rather than benefit wildlife.

This program is packed with "how's and why's" of attracting birds, butterflies and other wildlife to your backyard, no matter how small.

There is no fee to attend this program, but seating is limited and pre-registration is required.

Call (609) 989-6830 to register.

facebook.com/MGofMC

Brian M. Hughes, Mercer County Executive
Mercer County Board of Chosen Freeholders
Dr. Larry Katz, Dir., Coop. Ext., Sr. Assoc. Dir. NJAES

Chad Ripberger, County Department Head

Cooperating Agencies: Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey, U.S. Department of Agriculture, and County Boards of Chosen Freeholders. Rutgers Cooperative Extension a unit of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, is an equal opportunity program provider and employer. Contact your local Extension Office for information regarding special needs or accommodations. Contact the State Extension Director's Office if you have concerns related to discrimination, 732-932-5000, ext. 584.

